

1 Colin H. Murray (159142)
2 colin.murray@bakermckenzie.com
3 Teresa H. Michaud (296329)
4 teresa.michaud@bakermckenzie.com
5 Alexander G. Davis (287840)
6 alexander.davis@bakermckenzie.com
7 Anne M. Kelts (298710)
8 anne.kelts@bakermckenzie.com
BAKER & MCKENZIE LLP
Two Embarcadero Center, 11th Floor
San Francisco, CA 94111-3802
Telephone: +1 415 576 3000
Facsimile: +1 415 576 3099

9 Attorneys for Defendants
10 CRRC CORPORATION LTD., CRRC MA
CORPORATION, CRRC QINGDAO SIFANG CO.,
LTD., CHINA RAILWAY INTERNATIONAL
CO., LTD. and CHINA RAILWAY
INTERNATIONAL U.S.A. CO., LTD.

11 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
12 NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
13 SAN FRANCISCO DIVISION

14
15 SUN GROUP U.S.A. HARMONY CITY,
16 INC.,

17 Plaintiff,

18 v.

19 CRRC CORPORATION LTD.,
20 CRRC MA CORPORATION,
21 CRRC QINGDAO SIFANG CO., LTD.,
22 CHINA RAILWAY INTERNATIONAL CO.,
LTD., and
23 CHINA RAILWAY INTERNATIONAL U.S.A.
CO., LTD.,

24 Defendants.
25
26
27
28

Case No. 3:17-cv-02191-SK

REPLY MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANT CRRC
CORPORATION LTD.'S MOTION TO DISMISS PLAINTIFF'S FIRST
AMENDED COMPLAINT

Date: April 2, 2018
Time: 9:30 a.m.
Crtrm: A, 15th Floor
Judge: Magistrate Judge Sallie Kim
Trial Date: None set

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Page No.

|      |   |    |
|------|---|----|
| I.   | INTRODUCTION .....  | 1  |
| II.  | ARGUMENT .....  | 2  |
| A.   | These Diverse and Dispersed Entities Are Not A Single Enterprise .....  | 2  |
| 1.   | Sun’s Legal Conclusions Must Be Disregarded.....  | 3  |
| 2.   | Common Directors or Officers and Oversight by A Corporate ParentAre Insufficient to Establish Unity Of Interest .....   | 4  |
| 3.   | Sun’s Veil Piercing Argument Also Fails To Allege Any Facts ToEstablish Fraud Regarding the Corporate Form.....   | 6  |
| 4.   | Sun’s Conclusory Allegations of Conspiracy Are Insufficient.....  | 7  |
| B.   | CRRC Breached No Enforceable Contractual Obligations .....  | 7  |
| 1.   | Sun’s Failure to Plausibly Allege Alter Ego Liability Precludes it FromEstablishing a Breach of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement Based onthe Conduct of Entities other than CRRC .....          | 7  |
| 2.   | The 2014 Cooperation Agreement Does Not Obligate CRRC toSubmit Bids for the CHSR Project .....  | 8  |
| 3.   | Sun’s Breach of Contract Theory Based On Its “Priority and Non-Exclusive” Rights Fundamentally Misunderstands the Nature of aThird Party Bidding Agent’s Alleged Right of First Refusal ..... | 10 |
| 4.   | Sun Has Failed to Allege a Plausible Claim for Breach of the ImpliedCovenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing .....   | 11 |
| 5.   | Sun Has Alleged No Cognizable Damages Because CRRC Did NotWin Any CHSR Project Bids and the Agreement’s Three-Year TermHas Expired.....   | 12 |
| C.   | Sun’s Additional Claims Against CRRC Must Be Dismissed .....  | 13 |
| 1.   | Sun’s Quasi-Contract Claims for Unjust Enrichment and PromissoryEstoppel Fail As a Matter of Law In Light of the Parties’ 2014Cooperation Agreement .....                                     | 13 |
| 2.   | The Declaratory Judgment Claim Is Duplicative .....   | 14 |
| III. | CONCLUSION .....  | 15 |

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES*CASES

|   | Page Nos. |
|---|------------------|
| Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia, Ltd.,7 Cal. 4th 503 (1994).....                                      | 7                |
| AREI II Cases,216 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1022 (2013) .....  | 7                |
| Assoc. Vendors, Inc. v. Oakland Meat Co.,210 Cal. App.2d 825 (1962).....   | 6                |
| Bionghi v. Metro. Water Dist.,70 Cal. App. 4th 1358 (1999).....  | 2                |
| Brahmana v. Lembo,No. C-09-00106 RMW, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24784(N.D. Cal. March 27, 2010) .....                | 6                |
| Brennan v. Concord EFS, Inc.,369 F. Supp. 2d 1127 (N.D. Cal. 2005).....  | 3                |
| Cal. Ref. Co. v. Producers Ref. Corp.,25 Cal. App. 2d 104 (1938).....  | 9                |
| Doe v. Unocal Corp.,248 F.3d 915 (9th Cir. 2001).....  | 5                |
| Dole Food Co. v. Patrickson,538 U.S. 468 (2003) .....  | 2                |
| Galang v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.,No. 16-cv-03468-HSG, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 50789 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 3, 2017).....      | 11               |
| Gressett v. Contra Costa Cnty., No. C-12-3798 EMC,2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 70667 (N.D. Cal. May 17, 2013) .....         | 7                |
| Hickory Travel Sys., Inc. v. TUI AG,213 F.R.D. 547 (N.D. Cal. 2003) .....  | 5                |
| IndyMac Bank, F.S.B. v. Aryana/Olive Grove Land Dev., Ltd. Liab. Co.,No. EDCV 12-01494 .....                         | 9                |
| Kapu Gems v. Diamond Imps., Inc.,No. 15-cv-03531-MMC, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 107091(N.D. Cal. Aug. 12, 2016)..... | 6                |

|    |   |         |
|----|---|---------|
| 1  | Klein v. Chevron U.S.A., Inc. ,202 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1388 (2012) .....   | 13      |
| 2  |   |         |
| 3  | Laks v. Coast Fed. Sav. &amp; Loan Ass'n ,60 Cal. App. 3d 885 (1976).....  | 14      |
| 4  |   |         |
| 5  | Long v. Postorivo ,No. C 07-01547 CRB, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 78386 (N.D. Cal. 2007) .....  | 3       |
| 6  |   |         |
| 7  | Macom Tech. Solutions Holdings, Inc. v. Infineon Techs. AG ,No. 2:16-CV-02859, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 152155 (C.D. Cal. 2016) ..... | 3, 4, 5 |
| 8  |   |         |
| 9  | Mesler v. Bragg Mgmt. Co. ,39 Cal.3d 290 (1985).....   | 2       |
| 10 |   |         |
| 11 | Nordberg v. Trilegiant Corp. ,445 F. Supp. 2d 1082 (N.D. Cal. 2006).....   | 3       |
| 12 |   |         |
| 13 | Patmont Motor Werks v. Gateway Marine ,NO. C 96-2703 TEH, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20877 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 17, 1997).....               | 9       |
| 14 |   |         |
| 15 | Qwest Communs. Corp. v. Herakles, LLC ,No. 2:07-cv-00393-MCE-KJM, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22154(N.D. Cal. March 20, 2008) .....  | 3       |
| 16 |   |         |
| 17 | Ranza v. Nike, Inc. ,793 F.3d 1059 (9th Cir. 2015).....  | 2       |
| 18 |   |         |
| 19 | Sonora Diamond v. Superior Court ,83 Cal. App. 4th 523 (2000) .....  | 2, 4    |
| 20 |   |         |
| 21 | Spencer v. DHI Mortg. Co. ,642 F. Supp. 2d 1153 (E.D. Cal. 2009) .....   | 11      |
| 22 |   |         |
| 23 |   |         |
| 24 |   |         |
| 25 |   |         |
| 26 |   |         |
| 27 |   |         |
| 28 |   |         |

1       I. INTRODUCTION

2           In dismissing Sun’s first complaint, Judge Corley directed Plaintiff Sun Group USA (“Sun”)
 3 to draft an amended complaint based on the express rights and obligations in its claimed 2014
 4 Cooperation Agreement with Defendant CRRC Corporation Ltd. (“CRRC”), not one based on the 5 absent terms Sun wished existed.<sup>1</sup>

6           Sun’s Opposition to CRRC’s Motion (Dkt. 77) demonstrates that Judge Corley’s message
 7 has gone unheeded. Sun asks the Court to allow its First Amended Complaint (“FAC”) to proceed
 8 by recognizing alleged “implied” (i.e., unwritten) obligations, ignoring inconvenient express contract
 9 terms, and imputing the acts of non-contracting parties to CRRC through the disfavored doctrine of 10 “single enterprise” liability. Based on these legal contortions (among others), Sun advances an 11 interpretation of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement in which Sun, for its promise to do nothing in 12 particular, is guaranteed to collect at least 6% commissions on all North American rail contracts won 13 by any tangentially related, Chinese-government-owned manufacturer for decades to come.

14          Neither the law, nor the facts alleged, nor common sense supports Sun’s position. No
 15 contract term requires CRRC to submit any bids for the California High Speed Rail Project (“CHSR
 16 Project”). Sun’s theory that CRRC has an “implied obligation” to do so is contrary to California 17 contract law, and if accepted would fundamentally transform the nature of the parties’ agreement by 18 requiring CRRC to submit bids for practically every rail-related project in California. This CRRC 19 never agreed to do.

20          Moreover, no express term in the agreement governs the conduct of CRRC’s distinct 21 corporate affiliates such as CRRC MA or Qingdao Sifang. Their actions are therefore irrelevant to 22 assessing the validity of claims against CRRC. Sun cannot argue otherwise because its FAC failed 23 to allege facts to give rise to even a plausible basis for alter ego liability.

24          Finally, no express term in the 2014 Cooperation Agreement requires CRRC to give Sun
 25 “priority and non-exclusive” rights on other North American rail project bids unless and until CRRC
 26 chooses not to use its own resources and engages a third-party bidding agent like Sun in connection

---

27       <sup>1</sup> As the Court is likely aware, one day after CRRC filed its Motion to Dismiss Sun’s First Amended 28 Complaint, Sun added to its already extensive counsel list two additional attorneys from the one law firm whose appearance would result in Judge Corley’s automatic recusal. (Dkt. 66-68).

with those projects (which Sun does not allege CRRC to have done). Contrary to Sun’s suggestion, this is not an unjust or even atypical contract arrangement—it is one in which the agent bears the risk of an unsuccessful bid (or no bid) in exchange for the enjoying the upside of a successful one.

Accordingly, the Court should enforce the terms of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement as written, refuse to impose new, unwritten obligations on CRRC, and grant the Motion to dismiss Sun's First Amended Complaint.

II. ARGUMENT

A. These Diverse and Dispersed Entities Are Not A Single Enterprise

Sun’s claims against CRRC are based nearly entirely on the actions of other corporate entities. This lawsuit thus hinges in large part on Sun’s (doomed) effort to pierce the corporate veil and impute to CRRC the acts of the other entities Sun has sued.<sup>2</sup> Sun’s allegations, however, do not meet the high burden required to allow a court to disregard “the general principle of corporate law deeply ingrained in our economic and legal systems that a parent corporation . . . is not liable for the acts of its subsidiaries.” United States v. Best Foods, 524 U.S. 51, 61 (1998); see also Dole Food Co. v. Patrickson, 538 U.S. 468, 474 (2003) (“A basic tenet of American corporate law is that the corporation and its shareholders are distinct entities.”). California law incorporates this fundamental rule to allow veil piercing only in exceptional circumstances upon a finding of “an abuse of the corporate privilege.” Sonora Diamond v. Superior Court, 83 Cal. App. 4th 523, 538 (2000). Sun does not allege any facts to even suggest that such abuse has occurred here.

To meet its high burden, Sun must plead facts to establish both (i) a unity of interest and ownership such that the separate corporate personalities no longer exist and (ii) that failure to respect the separate corporate status “would result in fraud or injustice.” Ranza v. Nike, Inc., 793 F.3d 1059, 1073 (9th Cir. 2015). “[T]he corporate form will be disregarded only in narrowly defined circumstances and only when the ends of justice so require.” Mesler v. Bragg Mgmt. Co., 39 Cal.3d 290, 301 (1985) (emphasis added).

<sup>2</sup> These co-defendants include CRRC MA Corporation (“CRRC MA”) and CRRC Qingdao Sifang Co., Ltd. (“Qingdao Sifang”).

1                   1. Sun's Legal Conclusions Must Be Disregarded

2                   Sun's first response in support of its attempt to treat multiple distinct entities as one is to 3 shirk its responsibility to plead facts supporting corporate veil piercing by arguing that it has pled the 4 necessary legal conclusions. Opp. at 12;<sup>3</sup> see also Opp. at 13, 15 (quoting FAC ¶¶ 63, 64). Oddly,
 5 Sun suggests that it need not allege facts to establish its veil piercing or conspiracy arguments
 6 because "these are not causes of action, but evidentiary constructs—descriptions of some ways
 7 Plaintiff intends to prove its claims" and that CRRC's attack on the FAC's conclusory veil piercing 8 allegations should have been brought as a motion to strike. Opp. at 12.

9                   This is incorrect. Twombly, Iqbal, and their progeny instruct that legal conclusions are not 10 enough—Sun must allege "underlying facts" that, if true, are sufficient to pierce the corporate veil.
 11 "Conclusory allegations of 'alter ego' status are insufficient to state a claim. Rather, a plaintiff 12 must allege specific facts supporting both of the elements of alter ego liability." Macom Tech.
 13 Solutions Holdings, Inc. v. Infineon Techs. AG, No. 2:16-CV-02859 (PLAx), 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS
 14 152155, at *41-*42 (C.D. Cal. 2016) (quoting Gerritsen v. Warner Bros. Entm't, Inc., 112 F. Supp.
 15 3d 1011, 1942 (C.D. Cal. 2015) (emphasis added); See also, e.g., Qwest Communs. Corp. v.
 16 Herakles, LLC, No. 2:07-cv-00393-MCE-KJM, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22154, at *11 (N.D. Cal.
 17 March 20, 2008) ("Conclusory allegations are not sufficient to support an alter ego finding.").

18                   Many courts have dismissed insufficiently plead alter ego allegations like those here. See 19 Nordberg v. Trilegiant Corp., 445 F. Supp. 2d 1082, 1102 (N.D. Cal. 2006) (granting motion to 20 dismiss alter ego-based claim alleging "routine control" by parent entity); Brennan v. Concord EFS, 21 Inc., 369 F. Supp. 2d 1127, 1136 (N.D. Cal. 2005) (granting motion to dismiss alter ego theory based 22 on allegations of "dominion and control"); Long v. Postorivo, No. C 07-01547 CRB, 2007 U.S. Dist.
 23 LEXIS 78386, at *4-*5 (N.D. Cal. 2007) (granting motion to dismiss alter ego theory based on 24 allegations of "close coordination"). This Court should do the same and reject Sun's conclusory

25
 26 <sup>3</sup> Sun quotes an apparent typo in CRRC's Motion to Dismiss to suggest that CRRC admitted that 27 Sun's veil piercing allegations were-well plead. See Opp. at 12. For the avoidance of doubt, CRRC 28 confirms that this was merely an obvious and inadvertent omission of the word "not" in its brief and apologizes to the Court for the confusion. Compare Motion to Dismiss filed by CRRC MA et al. at 9 ("This bare recitation of the legal standard does not suffice under federal pleading standards.")
 (emphasis added). Sun's citation to this typographical error should be disregarded.

1 allegations.

2       2. Common Directors or Officers and Oversight by A Corporate Parent Are 3                          Insufficient to Establish Unity Of Interest

4                          The few facts that Sun does offer are insufficient to allege the required unity of interest. The 5 only facts Sun alleges are that (a) “CRRC MA serves as CRRC Group’s North America ‘regional 6 branch’”, (b) two directors of CRRC MA also served as directors of CRRC (although it is not clear if 7 they even served at the same time), (c) CRRC MA is a joint venture owned primarily by and assisted 8 and authorized by CRRC, and (d) CRRC MA submitted CRRC’s financial statements as part of 9 CRRC MA’s bid to the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (“MBTA”). See Opp. at 13-10 15.<sup>4</sup>

11                          Sun faces a high burden to allege facts demonstrating a unity of interest. Macom, 2016 U.S.
12 Dist. LEXIS 152155, at *41. Indeed, the Supreme Court has explained unambiguously that 13 allegations mirroring Sun’s are insufficient: “it cannot be enough . . . that dual officers and 14 directors made policy decisions and supervised activities [of the subsidiary].” Best Foods, 524
15 U.S. at 70 (emphasis added). “In the Ninth Circuit, evidence showing only ‘an active parent
16 corporation involved directly in decision-making about its subsidiaries’ holdings, but each entity 17 observe[s] all of the corporate formalities necessary to maintain corporate separateness’ is not 18 enough to demonstrate unity of interest.” Macom, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 152155, at *41-*42
19 (quoting Ranza, 793 F.3d at 1073) (emphasis added). California law is similarly clear: “[a]s a 20 practical matter, the parent must be shown to have moved beyond the establishment of general 21 policy and direction for the subsidiary and in effect taken over the performance of the 22 subsidiary’s day-to-day operations in carrying out that policy.” Sonora Diamond, 83 Cal. App.
23 4th at 542 (emphasis added).

24                          Accordingly, courts have rejected veil piercing allegations even where the degree of parent
25

---

26       <sup>4</sup> Sun’s assertion that “CRRC admits that it was CRRC, not CRRC MA, that actually bid on the 27 Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority Project” is wrong. Opp. at 2 & n.1. For the avoidance of 28 doubt, CRRC did not and does not admit that CRRC submitted the bid for the MBTA project (nor does Sun allege this). CRRC inadvertently failed to include “MA” in the quoted statement from Sun, which should read “Sun’s alleged work relating to CRRC MA’s bid to the MBTA . . .”.
Compare Opp. at 2 n.1 (citing CRRC Mot. at 21 n.18).

1 corporation control was much more extensive than the standard corporate relationship between
 2 CRRC and its affiliates alleged in the FAC. “The Ninth Circuit has also found no alter ego
 3 relationship ‘where the parent company guaranteed loans for the subsidiary, reviewed and approved
 4 major decisions, placed several of its directors on the subsidiary’s board, and was closely involved in 5 the subsidiary’s pricing decisions.’” Macom, 2016 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 152155, at *42 (quoting Doe v.
 6 Unocal Corp. 248 F.3d 915, 928 (9th Cir. 2001)); accord Hickory Travel Sys., Inc. v. TUI AG, 213
 7 F.R.D. 547, 554 (N.D. Cal. 2003). This Court should do the same.

8 Most directly, Sun does not allege that CRRC disregarded any corporate formalities. To the 9 contrary, Sun specifically alleges that corporate formalities were followed by CRRC formally 10 issuing and providing to the MBTA “[b]oard minutes authorizing the CRRC MA joint venture and 11 authorizing and directing CRRC MA agents to take all actions necessary to complete the 12 Massachusetts proposal.” FAC ¶ 71. Sun also expressly alleges that CRRC, CRRC MA, Qingdao
 13 Sifang, CRI, and CRI USA are each separate corporate entities. FAC ¶¶ 2-6. Because Sun’s own
 14 allegations make clear that these entities are separate and that the corporate form was respected, 15 Sun’s few factual allegations of common ownership, dual officers and directors, and involvement by 16 CRRC in the decision-making of CRRC MA and/or Qingdao Sifang are insufficient for disregarding 17 the corporate form.

18 Finally, Sun’s allegation that CRRC submitted its own financial statements as part of CRRC
 19 MA’s bid for the MBTA does not save its case. “[C]onsolidating the activities of a subsidiary into 20 the parent’s reports is a common business practice [and] is not enough ... to justify the conclusion 21 that [the parent corporation] would perform the activities of its subsidiaries were they unavailable to 22 act as its ‘representative.’” Doe v. Unocal Corp., 248 F.3d 915, 929 (9th Cir. 2001). The allegation
 23 of a reference to CRRC MA as a “regional branch” is similarly unavailing. See Hickory, 213 F.R.D.
 24 at 554 (concluding that a parent corporation’s reference to subsidiaries as divisions and not separate 25 companies, reports of the subsidiaries’ earnings in annual statements, boasts of corporate integration, 26 and decisions about restructuring the business of some of those subsidiaries “even in combination, 27 do not suffice to make a prima facie case of alter ego relationships”) (emphasis added). As in these 28 cases, Sun’s alter ego allegations in its FAC are legally insufficient.

1                   3. Sun's Veil Piercing Argument Also Fails To Allege Any Facts To
 2                   Establish Fraud Regarding the Corporate Form

3                   Even had Sun adequately alleged a unity of interest (which it has not), it still could not pierce
 4                   the corporate veil because the FAC fails to allege facts to support a finding that "honoring the 5                   corporate shell would promote a fraud or injustice." Brahmana v. Lembo, No. C-09-00106 RMW,
 6                   2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24784, at *19 (N.D. Cal. March 27, 2010) (granting motion to dismiss claims
 7                   based on veil piercing allegations). This would require a showing, not present here, of "some
 8                   conduct amounting to bad faith." Kapu Gems v. Diamond Imps., Inc., No. 15-cv-03531-MMC, 2016
 9                   U.S. Dist. LEXIS 107091, at *11-*12 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 12, 2016) (citing Assoc. Vendors, Inc. v.
 10                  Oakland Meat Co., 210 Cal. App.2d 825, 842 (1962)).

11                  There are no allegations that the corporate form has been used to defraud creditors. There
 12                  are no allegations that CRRC MA and Qingdao Sifang were undercapitalized. And there are no
 13                  allegations that CRRC, CRRC MA, and Qingdao Sifang commingled funds or failed to keep 14                  separate books and records. Instead, Sun merely offers the legal conclusion in its Opposition that 15                  "an inequitable result would occur if the acts in question are treated as those of one corporation 16                  alone" because Sun would be unable to succeed on its meritless claims if it could not impute the 17                  actions of CRRC MA and Qingdao Sifang to CRRC. Opp. at 15.

18                  As explained above, this unsupported legal conclusion (which relies on circular logic) is 19                  insufficient. Without alleging any facts demonstrating that CRRC used these entities as mere shells
 20                  to defraud creditors, Sun's attempt to pierce the corporate veil must fail. See, e.g., Kapu Gems, 2016
 21                  U.S. Dist. LEXIS 107091, at *11-*12 (dismissing claims premised on piercing corporate veil and 22                  rejecting argument that it would be inequitable to prevent plaintiff from recovering against alleged 23                  alter egos where plaintiff did not allege bad faith); Associated Vendors, Inc. v. Oakland Meat Co., 24                  210 Cal. App. 2d 825, 842 (1962) ("[I]t is not sufficient to merely show that a creditor will remain
 25                  unsatisfied if the corporate veil is not pierced, and thus set up such an unhappy circumstance as 26                  proof of an 'inequitable result.'"); Brahmana, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24784, at *19 (dismissing 27                  claims based on alter ego where the complaint did not "contain factual allegations showing that 28                  honoring the corporate shell would promote fraud or injustice"). Sun's claims against CRRC must

1 rise and fall based on the actions of CRRC alone.

2           4. Sun's Conclusory Allegations of Conspiracy Are Insufficient

3 Sun's conspiracy theory is equally flawed. As with the alter ego claims, Sun's conclusion
 4 that a conspiracy exists must be disregarded because the FAC's allegations do not contain "the 5 character and type of facts and circumstances upon which [Sun relies] to establish the conspiracy."
 6 AREI II Cases, 216 Cal. App. 4th 1004, 1022 (2013); see also, e.g., Gressett v. Contra Costa Cnty., 7 No. C-12-3798 EMC, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 70667, at *44 (N.D. Cal. May 17, 2013) ("After 8 Twombly and Iqbal, a complaint may not simply conclude that a conspiracy existed, but rather must 9 plead facts from which the existence of a conspiracy may reasonably be inferred.").

10 Indeed, the only facts purportedly supporting the conspiracy claim are insufficient as a matter
 11 of law. Sun alleges that "many of these entities (CRRC, CRRC Sifang, and CRI) were members of 12 at least two Chinese High Speed Rail 'teams' where CRI was designated as the leader." Opp. at 16.
 13 Sun also claims, "on information and belief" that CRI and CRRC were, respectively, "the 'railway
 14 company headquarters' international company'" and the "US company" referenced in CRRC's
 15 September 27, 2016 email allegedly suggesting that "these entities now essentially controlled
 16 CHSRP bidding." Opp. at 16 (quoting FAC ¶ 56). Even if true, this cannot save Sun's conspiracy 17 claim because a civil conspiracy requires, among other things, an agreement to conspire and specific,
 18 wrongful overt acts in furtherance of that purpose. E.g., Applied Equipment Corp. v. Litton Saudi
 19 Arabia, Ltd., 7 Cal. 4th 503, 511 (1994). Merely acting as a team to submit bids for the CHSR
 20 Project is neither illegal, nor improper, nor wrongful. Quite the contrary, this is a standard and 21 widely-used business practice. Sun's conspiracy claim, like its attempt to pierce the corporate veil, 22 must be dismissed. CRRC (and the other entities) must be judged on their individual actions alone.

23           B. CRRC Breached No Enforceable Contractual Obligations

24           1. Sun's Failure to Plausibly Allege Alter Ego Liability Precludes it From 25 Establishing a Breach of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement Based on the Conduct of Entities other than CRRC

26 The only parties to the 2014 Cooperation Agreement are CRRC's predecessor, CNR 27 Company Ltd., and Sun. For the reasons expressed in the opening Motion and further clarified in 28

1 Part II.A, above, Sun has failed to plausibly allege facts to allow the Court to impute the actions of 2 other entities such as Qingdao Sifang or CRRC MA to CRRC for purposes of assessing its
 3 performance of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement. For example, CRRC MA's bid on the MBTA
 4 project can have no bearing on CRRC's liability under the 2014 Cooperation Agreement. Thus, the 5 Court should grant the Motion to dismiss the FAC's claims asserted against CRRC—Counts One,
 6 Two, Three, Seven, and Eight—to the extent they are based on the actions of entities other than 7 CRRC itself.

8           2. The 2014 Cooperation Agreement Does Not Obligate CRRC to Submit 9           Bids for the CHSR Project

10           Sun's breach of contract and anticipatory breach claims fail because they proceed from a 11 faulty premise. Notwithstanding Sun's claim to the contrary, the 2014 Cooperation Agreement does 12 not contain an affirmative obligation by CRRC to submit bids for the CHSR Project. To be sure, the 13 parties could have drafted such an agreement, but they did not. Instead, the agreement simply 14 provides that, if CRRC submits such a bid, then Sun will be its exclusive bidding agent. This 15 contingency in turn creates the possibility of generating cooperation earnings should the efforts
 16 result in an actual contract award. The FAC makes clear that CRRC submitted no such bids. And 17 the agreement's three-year term has now expired. Thus, CRRC has not breached the agreement, 18 cannot do so in the future, and Sun has not suffered any damages.

19           Implicitly recognizing this dilemma, the Opposition now for the first time asks the Court to 20 read into the parties' agreement a new "implied obligation" emanating from language in the 21 preamble to the 2014 Cooperation Agreement stating that "the Parties hereby reach the following 22 consensus in order to ensure successful bidding for the California High Speed Rail Project." Opp.
 23 16:18-24. This language, self-evidently, does not create an affirmative obligation on the part of 24 CRRC to submit CHSR Project bids. Instead, it is merely an expression of what the parties hoped 25 would happen (i.e., a successful bid).

26           There is no legal basis to read new affirmative obligations into the parties' agreement.
 27 California law is clear that the Court's role is limited only to "ascertain[ing] and declar[ing] what is 28 in terms or in substance contained therein, not to insert what has been omitted" based on one

1 party's self-serving allegations. IndyMac Bank, F.S.B. v. Aryana/Olive Grove Land Dev., Ltd. Liab.
 2 Co., No. EDCV 12-01494 VAP (DTBx), 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 201377, at *13 (C.D. Cal. Sep. 4,
 3 2013) (quoting CAL. CODE CIV. PROC. § 1858) (emphasis added). The Court should reject Sun's 4 request to "insert what has been omitted" into the 2014 Cooperation Agreement.

5 Moreover, California courts have long rejected attempts to infer binding contractual
 6 obligations from generalized statements in the "whereas" clauses of contract preambles like the one
 7 on which Sun relies. For example, where a contract set forth a party's "desire[] to have . . . oil . . .
 8 refined in [the counterparty's] refinery," the court held that such language did not constitute a 9 "promise or agreement to furnish . . . oil to be refined," because such an alleged obligation was "too
 10 indefinite and uncertain" to be enforced. Cal. Ref. Co. v. Producers Ref. Corp., 25 Cal. App. 2d 104, 11 106 (1938). The court observed that it would have been "very easy to have expressed th[e] promise
 12 in a direct statement . . . [but that n]o such agreement appear[ed] in the instrument." Id. More 13 recently, a court in this district rejected a breach of contract claim arising out of language in the 14 preamble of the parties' contract, noting that such language was not part of "an actual covenant to 15 which [the defendant] agreed to be bound." Patmont Motor Werks v. Gateway Marine, NO. C 96-
 16 2703 TEH, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20877, at *16 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 17, 1997). So too here. The 17 preamble statement was a mere wish or expectation—not a contractual commitment.

18 In addition to being contrary to law, Sun's interpretation is also entirely unworkable. It has 19 no limiting principle were the Court to attempt to apply the "implied obligation" in practice. As the 20 Opposition itself claims, there are many government contracts bearing some connection to the CHSR
 21 Project. Opp. 8:1-3. But the FAC does not explain which opportunities CRRC is allegedly obligated 22 to pursue under its apparent implied obligations. Is it all Requests For Proposal announced on the 23 CHSR Project website? Is it only those relating to the actual high speed line between San Francisco
 24 and Los Angeles? Or does CRRC's alleged implied obligation also cover the expanded routes
 25 connecting Sacramento and San Diego? Much like the alleged obligation that was "too indefinite 26 and uncertain" in California Refining Co., Sun's "implied obligation" theory provides no method for 27 answering basic questions about how to apply and enforce such this supposed duty. Instead, Sun's 28 interpretation gives it an unreasonable and open-ended claim to payment effectively for any project

1 related in any way to trains in California for which CRRC chooses not to submit a bid.

2 Finally, Sun's argument has no basis in economic reality. As Sun would have it, by signing
 3 the 2014 Cooperation Agreement, CRRC implicitly bound itself to bid on any and all available
 4 CHSR rail projects—even those for which it has no interest or no realistic shot at winning or 5 performing—all for the apparent purpose of increasing Sun's chances of reaping windfall
 6 cooperation earnings. All the while, Sun is not required to do anything at all under the 2014
 7 Cooperation Agreement to support CRRC's bidding efforts. This makes no sense. The Court should 8 reject Sun's "implied obligation" theory of contract breach and grant the Motion to dismiss the First 9 and Second Counts of the FAC.

10                   3. Sun's Breach of Contract Theory Based On Its "Priority and Non- 11                   Exclusive" Rights Fundamentally Misunderstands the Nature of a Third
 12                   Party Bidding Agent's Alleged Right of First Refusal

13 The Opposition asks the Court to interpret paragraph 3 of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement
 14 as providing Sun with an agent's "right of first refusal" to participate in all rail bids submitted by 15 CRRC to North America transportation agencies. Opp. 9-12. CRRC does not concede that the 16 parties' agreement provides Sun with such a right. However, even accepting Sun's premise for 17 purposes of this Motion, Sun's understanding of its alleged first refusal rights is unreasonable and should be rejected as a basis for claiming a breach of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement.

18 Sun defines a "right of first refusal" as follows: "whenever an opportunity is refused by the 19 first party owning that right, a second party is then allowed to become a partner." Opp. 11 n.8
 20 (emphasis omitted). As this definition makes clear, a right of first refusal is triggered only when 21 there is an "opportunity" to refuse in the first place. The opportunity in this case is to act as CRRC's
 22 third-party bidding agent. However, if CRRC has no need for third-party services in connection
 23 with a particular rail bid, then there is no opportunity CRRC has to offer, and therefore nothing for 24 Sun to refuse. This reading is further supported by the express language entitling CRRC to rely on 25 its own "respective resources" with respect to non-CHSR Project bids in North America. 2014
 26 Cooperation Agreement ¶ 3. As the FAC does not allege that CRRC used any other third-party
 27 bidding agents in connection with any such bids, there is no basis on which to conclude that Sun has 28 plausibly alleged a breach of paragraph 3 of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement to support its breach

1 of contract and related claims.

2           4. Sun Has Failed to Allege a Plausible Claim for Breach of the Implied
3 Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

4           Sun's cause of action for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing must 5 be dismissed because Sun has failed to plausibly allege that CRRC breached any terms of the 6 parties' 2014 Cooperation Agreement as written. The "implied covenant of good faith and fair
7 dealing is limited to assuring compliance with the express terms of the contract, and cannot be 8 extended to create obligations not contemplated by the contract." Spencer v. DHI Mortg. Co., 642 F.
9 Supp. 2d 1153, 1165 (E.D. Cal. 2009) (emphasis added); see also Galang v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.,
10 No. 16-cv-03468-HSG, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 50789, at *13 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 3, 2017) ('[T]o state a 11 claim for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, Plaintiff must identify the 12 specific contractual provision that Defendant frustrated.'). The covenant creates no independently 13 enforceable rights, but is instead limited to instances where one contracting party claims that the 14 other has unfairly frustrated its right to receive "the benefits of the agreement actually made." Id.

15           As explained above, and as Sun has never disputed, the 2014 Cooperation Agreement does 16 not require Sun to do anything at all to support a bid by CRRC for the CHSR Project. In exchange
17 for its promise to do nothing, the benefit of Sun's bargain was limited to the chance of reaping an 18 enormous windfall if CRRC submitted a successful bid during a specific three-year window and if 19 that bid was successful. Likewise, and again as Sun has never disputed, the 2014 Cooperation
20 Agreement does not require Sun to do anything with respect to non-CHSR Project bids in North
21 America. In exchange for this promise to do nothing, the benefit of Sun's bargain was limited—
22 under Sun's alleged right of first refusal theory—to ensuring that CRRC would turn to it before any 23 other third-party bidding agent during a specific three-year window. None of CRRC's alleged 24 conduct violated the "express terms" of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement, nor did it unfairly deprive 25 Sun of its limited bargained-for benefits. This is sufficient to grant the Motion to dismiss Count
26 Three of the FAC.

27           Finally, the Opposition makes clear that Sun's implied covenant claim is based on the same
28 alleged conduct that supports its breach of contract claims. As such, Sun's claim is superfluous and

1 the Court may disregard it as a matter of law. See Bionghi v. Metro. Water Dist., 70 Cal. App. 4th
 2 1358, 1370 (1999) (“[I]f the plaintiff’s allegations of breach of the covenant of good faith do not go
 3 beyond the statement of a mere contract breach and, relying on the same alleged acts, simply seek 4 the same damages or other relief already claimed in a companion contract cause of action, they may 5 be disregarded as superfluous as no additional claim is actually stated.”) (citation omitted).

6       5. Sun Has Alleged No Cognizable Damages Because CRRC Did Not Win 7 Any CHSR Project Bids and the Agreement’s Three-Year Term Has Expired

8           Just as it failed to allege any conduct by CRRC that constituted a breach of the 2014
 9 Cooperation Agreement as written, Sun has likewise failed to allege that it suffered any damages.
 10 The Opposition’s arguments to the contrary should be rejected for the following reasons.

11          First, even accepting for purposes of this Motion that the “Early Train Operator” contract
 12 referenced in CRRC’s Request for Judicial Notice is only one of many CHSR Project contracts, Sun
 13 fails to acknowledge that its alleged exclusivity rights under the 2014 Cooperation Agreement
 14 (including its opportunity to reap cooperation earnings from successful CRRC bids) have long since 15 expired. The parties’ agreement remained in effect for “a period of three years starting from the first 16 day of work on the Project.” 2014 Cooperation Agreement ¶ 5. The FAC alleges that CRRC and 17 Sun met in San Francisco, California on May 11, 2014 to participate in meetings arranged by Sun
 18 with various government officials regarding the CHSR Project. FAC ¶ 36. Thus, with “work”
 19 beginning at the latest on May 11, 2014, the 2014 Cooperation Agreement expired on May 11,
 20 2017.<sup>5</sup> The FAC does not allege that CRRC successfully bid on—or even failed to bid on—any

---

21          <sup>5</sup> Paragraph 5 further states that “if the Project has not been completed upon expiration of the three-22 year term, the term shall continue until the Project ends.” 2014 Cooperation Agreement ¶ 5. While 23 the term “Project” is undefined, the only reasonable interpretation is that it refers to any CHSR
 24 Project bids by CRRC which are currently pending at the expiration of the three year term. Because 25 there were no such pending bids on May 11, 2017, the agreement expired. Sun cannot credibly
 26 argue that the term “Project” refers generally to the California High Speed Rail Project as a whole 27 because to do so would lead to absurd results. The California High Speed Rail Project involves an 800-mile high speed rail line from Sacramento to San Diego, with 24 stations. There is no timeline that even estimates when this entire project will “end[.]”. Phase I is not expected to be completed until at earliest 2029. There is no reasonable basis to infer that the parties somehow agreed that the three-year contract duration would actually be extended for decades into the 21st century, nor does the FAC contain such an allegation.

Moreover, interpreting “Project” broadly would doom Sun’s claims from the outset by stripping it of any contractual rights. As noted above, the three-year term began to run from the “first day of work

1 CHSR Project contracts during this three-year period other than the Early Train Operator contract.
 2 Thus, Sun's claim that it may be contractually entitled to cooperation earnings for future CHSR
 3 Project contracts has no merit.

4 Second, Sun offers no authority to support its claim that it can recover in contract for 5 benefits conferred on CRRC even though the parties' agreement specifically states that Sun would 6 "bear its respective expenses." 2014 Cooperation Agreement ¶ 1. Such a theory, if cognizable at all,
 7 would necessarily sound in quasi-contract. But quasi-contract claims cannot proceed where, as here,
 8 Sun alleges that the parties' relationship is governed by an enforceable agreement. See, e.g., Klein v.
 9 Chevron U.S.A., Inc., 202 Cal. App. 4th 1342, 1388 (2012) ("A plaintiff may not . . . pursue or 10 recover on a quasi-contract claim if the parties have an enforceable agreement . . . .") (emphasis 11 added).

12       C.     Sun's Additional Claims Against CRRC Must Be Dismissed

13       1.     Sun's Quasi-Contract Claims for Unjust Enrichment and Promissory
 14              Estoppel Fail As a Matter of Law In Light of the Parties' 2014
 Cooperation Agreement

15       Sun cannot maintain quasi-contract claims given that the 2014 Cooperation Agreement is 16 alleged to govern the parties' relationship with respect to the subject matter alleged in the FAC.
 17 Klein, 202 Cal. App. 4th at 1388. This is sufficient to grant the Motion to dismiss Counts Seven and 18 Eight of the FAC. See also CRRC's Mot. to Dismiss (Dkt. 64) at 17-21 (setting forth additional 19 legal grounds in support of motion to dismiss unjust enrichment and promissory estoppel causes of 20 action).

21       Further, Sun's promissory estoppel claim fails to satisfy its burden to identify any 22 unambiguous promise made by CRRC to Sun. Indeed, the Opposition effectively concedes that the 23 phrase "priority and non-exclusive partners" in the 2014 Cooperation Agreement is ambiguous given 24 the two interpretations offered by the parties in this litigation. Opp. 10:5-7. None of the cases cited
 25 in the Opposition supports Sun's assertion that a party can maintain a promissory estoppel claim

26 on the Project." The FAC alleges that Sun had performed "work" on CHSR Project since at least 27 2011. FAC ¶ 27. Under this reading, the 2014 Cooperation Agreement would have expired more 28 than a decade before it was executed. To avoid these results, the term "Project" must refer to any CHSR Project bids actually made by CRRC which were currently pending at the expiration of the three year term. There are no such bids alleged in the FAC.

1 while at the same time acknowledging that the alleged promise at issue is ambiguous. See Opp.
 2 23:19-24:9. Similarly, Sun’s claim that CRRC promised to submit bids on all CHSR Project
 3 contracts during the three-year term of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement is inherently ambiguous, as
 4 it rests on a theory of an “implied obligation” deriving from general language in the agreement’s
 5 preamble that contains no such promise. See Opp. 17:9-12; See Laks v. Coast Fed. Sav. & Loan
 6 Ass’n, 60 Cal. App. 3d 885, 891-93 (1976) (affirming dismissal of promissory estoppel claim where 7 contract terms did not demonstrate a clearly ascertainable promise and were contingent on further
 8 negotiations and actions of third party). For these separate reasons, Count Eight should be dismissed 9 as a matter of law.

10                   2.         The Declaratory Judgment Claim Is Duplicative

11                  As explained in CRRC’s opening motion, Sun’s Ninth Cause of Action for declaratory relief
 12 should be dismissed because it is not an independent cause of action under California law and is 13 duplicative of the substantive claims for relief set forth in the FAC. CRRC’s Mot. to Dismiss (Dkt.
 14 64) at 21.

15                  The Opposition nevertheless claims that two aspects of its declaratory relief claim will not 16 necessarily be resolved by Sun’s other causes of action. This contention has no merit. The first 17 aspect is whether Sun is entitled to at least 6% commission of any future bids awarded to CRRC for 18 North American rail contracts. Opp. 25. Sun has sought such future commissions as consequential
 19 damages arising out of its breach of contract and intentional interference claims. See FAC, Prayer
 20 for Relief ¶ B. Thus, the Court will have to confront and resolve this issue, including the date of 21 expiration of the 2014 Cooperation Agreement, in resolving Sun’s substantive claims (to the extent 22 they can survive the instant motions to dismiss).

23                  The second aspect—whether a declaratory judgment rendered by this Court would be binding
 24 on CRRC and its successors and assigns—should be rejected out of hand because it describes 25 nothing more than an empty tautology: according to Sun, its declaratory judgment claim presents a 26 novel issue of its enforceability because enforceability issues must be addressed in rendering a 27 declaratory judgment. This issue has nothing to do with the 2014 Cooperation Agreement or any of 28 the parties’ substantive claims and defenses in this litigation. As Sun’s circular logic cannot salvage

1 its otherwise duplicative and legally improper declaratory relief claim, the Court should dismiss
2 Count Nine of the FAC.

3 III. CONCLUSION

4 For the foregoing reasons, Defendant CRRC respectfully requests that the Court grant this 5 motion, dismiss all claims against it with prejudice, and award any and all other appropriate relief.
6

7 Dated: February 16, 2018

BAKER & MCKENZIE LLP

9 By: /s/ Teresa H. Michaud

10 Teresa H. Michaud
11 Attorneys for Defendants
12 CRRC CORPORATION LTD., CRRC MA
13 CORPORATION, CRRC QINGDAO
SIFANG CO., LTD., CHINA RAILWAY
INTERNATIONAL CO., LTD. and CHINA
RAILWAY INTERNATIONAL U.S.A. CO.,
LTD.

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28